(3) A secondary condition of an activity licence is any condition or obligation which is not the basic regulation, including conditions which are imposed in addition to the conditions for commencement or pursuit of economic activities arising from the basic regulation of the activity licence, providing for example the time limit of validity of the activity licence. Economic activity requirements and the obligation to comply with economic activity requirements are not secondary conditions for the purposes of this Act.

(4) Secondary conditions are added to an activity licence upon its issue or during its validity only in the cases and to the extent provided by law.

(5) Secondary conditions become effective at the same time as the activity licence or from the date set out in the secondary conditions, whichever is later.

(6) The validity of secondary conditions terminates upon revocation or expiry of the activity licence or from the date set out in the secondary conditions, whichever is earlier.

§ 18. Subject of review of activity licence

(1) The subject of review of an activity licence is a set of economic activity requirements, the identification of compliance with which is a prerequisite for grant of the activity licence.

(2) If an economic activity requirement in the subject of review of an activity licence applied for is also in the subject of review of a valid activity licence issued earlier by an Estonian economic administrative authority to the undertaking in another area of activity, the activity licence that has been issued earlier also proves compliance with the given requirement.

(3) If compliance with an economic activity requirement in the subject of review of an activity licence is proved by a valid administrative act issued by an economic administrative authority within the framework of another proceeding, this administrative act also proves compliance with the given requirement for the activity licence applied for.

§ 19. Application for activity licence

(1) In order to obtain an activity licence, an undertaking submits an application (hereinafter application for activity licence) to an economic administrative authority, which is authorised by law to adjudicate applications for activity licences.

(2) An undertaking provides the following information in the application for an activity licence:

- 1) the information specified in clauses 15 (1) 1)–4) and 7) of this Act;
- 2) the information specified in subsections 15 (2)–(5) of this Act in the case of existence of the respective requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence;
- 3) if the undertaking wishes that the period of validity of the activity licence granted thereto is limited in comparison to the period of validity prescribed by law, the desired period of validity of the activity licence;
- 4) the plan for compliance with the undertaking's diligence obligation if the undertaking is required to submit it pursuant to this Act;
- 5) if the undertaking wishes to use the activity licence also in the activities of the subsidiary, the business name, registry code and address of the seat of the subsidiary;
- 6) other information provided by law.

(3) In the application an undertaking may omit the information which was included in the application for an activity licence submitted earlier thereby concerning the same activity if the undertaking confirms the truth of the information submitted earlier.

(4) An undertaking which is a legal person in foundation submits in the application for an activity licence a document certifying the foundation of the legal person, in particular the memorandum of association or the foundation resolution, or at least one transcript thereof which is notarised or certified in the equivalent manner, instead of the registry code. An activity licence issued to an undertaking in foundation becomes effective upon the acquisition of passive legal capacity thereby at the earliest.

(5) An economic administrative authority submits the initial answer containing the following information to the person having submitted the application no later than on the third working day following the submission of the application:

- 1) the day of commencement of proceeding of the application;
- 2) the time limit for adjudication of the application;
- 3) the period of validity or maximum period of validity of the activity licence if it is provided by law;
- 4) the references to the economic activity requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence and the legal provisions containing the legal remedies that can be used by the undertaking for contesting the activity of the economic administrative authority;
- 5) the information concerning the grant of the activity licence by default, unless this is precluded by law.

(6) An economic administrative authority adjudicating the application has the right to demand additional information from an undertaking if this is necessary for verification of compliance with the economic activity requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence. The economic administrative authority reasons the necessity for additional information and determines a reasonable time limit for the submission thereof.

(7) An undertaking pays the state fee for adjudication of the application upon submission thereof at the rate provided for in the State Fees Act.

(8) An economic administrative authority issues an activity licence to an undertaking promptly when compliance with the requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence has been ascertained.

(1) An economic administrative authority adjudicates applications for activity licences by grant of or refusal to grant an activity licence within 30 days after submission of the application. The time limit for adjudication of applications commences from the submission of all the required information. If an undertaking fails to submit the information subject to be submitted in the application for an activity licence, the economic administrative authority notifies the undertaking thereof no later than on the working day following the day of detecting such failure, setting out the information which has not been submitted and determining a reasonable time limit for submission thereof and explaining that the economic administrative authority need not review the application upon failure to submit the required information. If the undertaking fails to submit the required information on time, the economic administrative authority need not adjudicate the application for an activity licence.

(2) If it appears upon review of an application that personal or tangible requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence have not been complied with or an activity licence cannot be granted due to the reason that an undertaking obliged to submit the plan for compliance with the undertaking's diligence obligation pursuant to this Act has failed to submit such plan, the economic administrative authority may suspend the time limit for adjudication of the application until the deficiency is remedied, but not for longer than 30 days, notifying the undertaking which has submitted the application thereof.

(3) An economic administrative authority may extend the time limit for adjudication of the application once by up to 30 days if this is necessary due to the complexity of an individual case, notifying the undertaking which has submitted the application thereof. The economic administrative authority shall reason the necessity for extending the time limit and the duration thereof in a notice given to the undertaking which has submitted the application.

(4) If an economic administrative authority fails to adjudicate an application within the time limit or extended time limit determined by law, an activity licence is deemed to be granted to the undertaking by default upon expiry of the time limit and the economic administrative authority enters the data of the activity licence in the register on the working day following the expiry of the time limit. Due to overriding reasons relating to the public interest, likewise in order to protect the rights of third persons, this principle may be deviated from in the cases provided by law. The principle of entry into force of an activity licence by default is not applied if an activity licence must be granted with secondary conditions.

(1) An activity licence is valid across the whole territory of Estonia unless the activity licence is designated for activities within a specific licensed territory or place. The extent of the subject of regulation of activity licences outside the territory of Estonia is determined by international agreements.

(2) Activity licences are also valid for subsidiaries of undertakings.

§ 22. Activity licences of Contracting States and third countries

(1) An economic administrative authority exempts a service provider of another Contracting State and in the cases provided by law an undertaking of another Contracting State, including its subsidiaries, who wishes to commence economic activities subject to an authorisation obligation in Estonia from the authorisation obligation in Estonia if the specified service provider or undertaking has been granted an activity licence for operation in the respective area of activity in another Contracting State (hereinafter activity licence of Contracting State), which by its subject of review predominantly corresponds to the activity licence of Estonia and which validity has not been confined to a territory or place of business situated outside Estonia.

(2) To obtain exemption from the authorisation obligation an undertaking of another Contracting State shall submit an application (hereinafter application for exemption from the authorisation obligation) to an economic administrative authority, setting out the following information:

- 1) in the case of a sole proprietor, the name, personal identification code, in the absence thereof the date of birth, and business name upon the existence thereof, in the case of an undertaking which is a legal person, the business name and registry code;
- 2) the address of the seat of the undertaking;
- 3) the contact details of the undertaking (phone number, postal address and e-mail address);
- 4) the name of the authority that has granted the activity licence and the date of issue of the licence.

(3) Upon adjudication of an application for exemption from the authorisation obligation an economic administrative authority verifies only the existence of the basis provided for in subsection (1) of this section. The economic administrative authority adjudicates the application for exemption from the authorisation obligation and responds to the undertaking of another Contracting State within the time limit for adjudication of applications for activity licences prescribed in this Act. The economic administrative authority may refuse to exempt from the authorisation obligation if the existence of the basis for exemption cannot be verified with reasonable efforts within the prescribed time limit.

(4) If an application for exemption from the authorisation obligation is submitted by a service provider of another Contracting State, an economic administrative authority ascertains the absence or existence of the authorisation obligation if necessary with the assistance of a liaison point of the Contracting State specified in Article 28(2) of the Services Directive. In the case of other undertakings of other Contracting States the economic administrative authority may request from the undertaking the information necessary to prove exemption from the authorisation obligation in accordance with subsection 19 (6).

(5) Service providers who wish to commence the provision of services temporarily in the Republic of Estonia in the meaning of Article 57 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, except for service providers providing the services specified in Article 17 of the Services Directive, are not subject to the authorisation obligation.

(6) An economic administrative authority may declare the decision on exemption from the authorisation obligation granted on the basis of subsection (1) of this section invalid or require the person specified in subsection (5) to apply for an activity licence if the undertaking of another Contracting State pursues economic activities or the service provider provides the services fully or predominantly in Estonia, exercising thereby the right established in Articles 49 and 56 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union with an aim of non-compliance with the authorisation requirement established in Estonia, in particular if it is obvious that the undertaking has not commenced economic activities in another Contracting State in the area of activity where exemption from the authorisation obligation is applied for. A service provider exempted on the basis of subsection (5) of this section may be required to apply for an activity licence only if it is justified by the protection of public order, public security, public health or the protection of the environment and it is in compliance with Article 16(1) of the Services Directive.

(7) This provisions of this section apply to undertakings of third countries if so prescribed by an international treaty.

(8) An undertaking pays a state fee for adjudication of an application for exemption from the authorisation obligation in the rate of one-half of the rate of the state fee for adjudication of an application for an activity licence. The amount of the payable state fee is rounded to full cents.
[RT I, 29.06.2014, 1 - entry into force 01.07.2014]

§ 23. Limitation of number of activity licences

(1) In the cases provided by law an economic administrative authority may limit the number of undertakings to which it issues an activity licence if this is justified by:

- 1) the scarcity of technical or natural resources;
- 2) an overriding reason relating to the public interest.

(2) In order to grant activity licences in a limited number as specified in subsection (1) of this section, an economic administrative authority conducts a selection procedure to ensure impartiality of the economic administrative authority, equal opportunities for applicants and transparency of the selection procedure, in particular adequate publicity about the commencement, conduct and completion of the selection procedure. For this purpose the economic administrative authority makes public at least the information provided for in subsection 19 (5) of this Act.

(3) Where a reason for limitation of the number of activity licences ceases to exist, an economic administrative authority makes it public on the first opportunity.

(4) Upon granting activity licences in a limited number, an economic administrative authority may not prefer an undertaking or a person related thereto to other undertakings only due to the reason that the undertaking has been previously engaged in the same area of activity.

§ 24. Term of activity licence

(1) An economic administrative authority grants an activity licence for an unspecified term, unless the limitation of the term of validity is prescribed by law due to an overriding reason relating to the public interest or it is applied for by the undertaking itself.

(2) If the number of activity licences is limited due to the scarcity of technical or natural resources or an overriding reason relating to the public interest, an activity licence is granted for a specified term provided by law, which does not restrict competition beyond what is necessary in order to enable the service provider to recoup the cost of investment and to make a fair return on the capital invested. The term may not be automatically extendable without inspecting the economic activity requirements and without considering the applications for activity licences by other undertakings; neither can other advantages over other applicants be given to an undertaking, whose term of activity licence is about to end or has just ended or to persons related to the specified undertaking.

§ 25. Refusal to grant activity licence

(1) An economic administrative authority refuses to grant an activity licence in the following cases:

- 1) a prohibition on economic activities imposed by a court judgment or pursuant to law is effective in respect of the undertaking in the appropriate area of activity;
- 2) the undertaking or its economic activity does not comply with one or more economic activity requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence;
- 3) the undertaking obliged to submit the plan for compliance with the undertaking's diligence obligation pursuant to this Act has not submitted such plan or the plan submitted thereby is in the opinion of the economic administrative authority not adequate for prevention of violations;
- 4) the undertaking has intentionally submitted incorrect information in the application for an activity licence, which could affect the adjudication of the application, if upon failure to submit such information the grant of the activity licence should be refused on other grounds specified in this section.

(2) If an economic administrative authority limits the number of activity licences and grants an activity licence on the basis of the selection procedure in conformity with § 23 of this Act, the economic administrative authority refuses to grant an activity licence, in addition to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, also in the following cases:

- 1) an undertaking having taken part in the selection procedure was not selected;
- 2) a selection procedure for grant of a new activity licence cannot be conducted due to the reason that the reason of limiting the number of undertakings precludes the grant of additional activity licences.

(3) If the subject of regulation of an activity licence allows to grant an activity licence for commencement of economic activities in several areas of activity, an economic administrative authority refuses to grant an activity licence only in the area of activity, regarding which the grounds for refusal provided for in this section exist.

§ 26. Combining of authorisation procedures

(1) If an undertaking submits applications for obtaining activity licences in several areas of activity at the same time and one economic administrative authority is competent to adjudicate the submitted applications for activity licences, the economic administrative authority decides with the consent of the undertaking that the activity licence issued to the undertaking includes all the activity licences required for the commencement of activities to the extent specified therein, combining for this purpose the subjects of review of the activity licences applied for by the undertaking and the activity licence application procedures. If different time limits apply for the adjudication of applications for different activity licences, the longest time limit of these applies to the grant of a combined activity licence.

(2) If different rates of the state fee are prescribed for the adjudication of applications for different activity licences, the highest of these applies.

§ 27. Preliminary activity licence

(1) Upon adjudication of applications for activity licences an economic administrative authority may allow an undertaking to commence economic activities prior to final inspection of the economic activity requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence (hereinafter preliminary activity licence) if the following conditions are met:

- 1) there is public interest in the preliminary activity licence or legitimate interest of the undertaking, which overrides the danger that may be caused to public order by the preliminary grant of the activity licence;
- 2) according to the preliminary opinion, there is reason to presume that there are no grounds for refusal to grant an activity licence provided for in § 25 of this Act.

(2) If the subject of regulation of an activity licence allows to grant an activity licence for commencement of economic activities in several areas of activity, an economic administrative authority may grant the preliminary activity licence for commencement of economic activities in an area of activity, regarding which the conditions provided for in subsection (1) of this section are met.

(3) An undertaking bears the risks arising from operation on the basis of the preliminary activity licence, including the risk that the grant of the activity licence is refused and the undertaking is obliged to restore the situation prior to the grant of the preliminary activity licence in the case of justified need as prescribed by the economic administrative authority.

(4) A preliminary activity licence becomes invalid upon grant of or refusal to grant an activity licence.

§ 28. Preliminary decision on activity licence and contract on compliance with requirements

(1) If legitimate interest of an undertaking exists, an economic administrative authority ascertains, at the request of the undertaking, compliance with individual economic activity requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence by a preliminary administrative act (hereinafter preliminary decision).

(2) At the request of an undertaking, an economic administrative authority enters into an administrative contract with the undertaking instead of a preliminary decision, agreeing in the contract, in addition to compliance with the economic activity requirements, where necessary, also on the conditions which are deemed as compliance with the requirements in the subject of review or in which manner the compliance with the requirements is permissible (hereinafter contract on compliance with requirements).

(3) An economic administrative authority ascertains compliance with an economic activity requirement or permissibility of compliance therewith in a certain manner by a preliminary decision or by a contract on compliance with requirements prior to actual compliance therewith if an undertaking submits an appropriate plan for this purpose in the application.

(4) An economic administrative authority makes a preliminary decision, enters into a contract on compliance with requirements or refuses to do it within 30 days from submission of an application and in the case of a previously submitted application for an activity licence, within a reasonable period of time before its adjudication.

(5) After issue of a preliminary decision or entry into a contract on compliance with requirements an economic administrative authority confines itself in adjudication of an application for activity licence to the review of economic activity requirements, which compliance has not been ascertained by a preliminary decision on activity licence or a contract on compliance with requirements, and it does not deviate from the preliminary decision or the contract on compliance with requirements in further adjudication of the application for activity licence. An economic administrative authority reviews an economic activity requirement ascertained upon adjudication of an application for activity licence by a preliminary decision or contract on compliance with requirements again and may deviate from the preliminary decision or contract on compliance with requirements if compliance with the economic activity requirement has been ascertained on the basis of the plan specified in subsection (3) of this section and the undertaking has failed to comply with this plan.

(6) After issue of a preliminary decision or entry into a contract on compliance with requirements an undertaking becomes entitled to receive an activity licence promptly after compliance with all the economic activity requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence has been ascertained, including compliance therewith in the manner permitted by the preliminary decision or contract on compliance with requirements.

(7) The term of a preliminary decision on activity licence or administrative contract is two years from the issue of the preliminary decision or entry into a contract on compliance with requirements unless a different term is specified in the preliminary decision or contract on compliance with requirements.

Chapter 3

Pursuit of Economic Activities

Division 1

Obligations of Undertakings upon Pursuing Economic Activities

§ 29. Diligence obligation of undertaking

When pursuing economic activities, an undertaking is required to take measures to ensure compliance with economic activity requirements and also secondary conditions of the activity licence, if they exist, and to eliminate promptly any non-compliance with the economic activity requirements or secondary conditions (diligence obligation of undertaking).

§ 30. Obligation to notify of changes in circumstances related to economic activities

(1) In the case of an area of activity subject to the authorisation obligation, an economic administrative authority competent to grant an activity licence shall be notified of an intention to change the circumstances related to the subject of review of the activity licence or the circumstances related to the secondary conditions no less than 30 days before the intended change by an undertaking and no less than three months before the intended change by a provider of services of general interest (hereinafter notice on intention to change economic activities). A notice on intention to change economic activities shall also be submitted if an undertaking founds a subsidiary which commences economic activities within the framework of the subject of regulation of the activity licence.

(2) An undertaking notifies an economic administrative authority competent to grant the activity licence promptly, but no later than within five working days, of changes in the circumstances related to the subject of review of the activity licence and circumstances related to the secondary conditions that have occurred independently of the undertaking (hereinafter notice on change in economic activities).

(3) An undertaking describes in the notice on intention to change economic activities and in the notice on change in economic activities, which circumstances in the subject of review of the activity licence or related to the secondary conditions of the activity licence have changed or are intended to be changed, or submits the data specified in clauses 15 (1) 1)–3), 5) and 6) of this Act concerning a subsidiary which commences economic activities within the framework of the subject of regulation of the activity licence.

(4) If it appears from the notice that the changes bring along non-compliance with the economic activity requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence or the secondary conditions of the activity licence, a need to review the economic activity requirements, amend the activity licence or apply for a new activity licence, the economic administrative authority notifies the undertaking thereof immediately. If a need for amendment of the activity licence or application for a new activity licence appears, the notices specified in subsection (1) of this section are regarded as applications for amendment of the activity licence unless the undertaking has specified in the notice that it has no such wish.

(5) Upon a change in the general information concerning economic activities, which is not required to be notified on the basis of subsection (1) of this section, an undertaking notifies the registrar thereof promptly, but no later than within five working days, specifying the changed information in the notice (hereinafter notice on a change in the general information concerning economic activities).

(6) An undertaking submits together with the annual report a confirmation that it has performed the notification obligations provided for in subsections (1), (2) and (5) of this section or about the absence of such notification obligations.

(7) A sole proprietor submits together with the income tax return a confirmation that it has performed the notification obligations provided for in subsections (1), (2) and (5) of this section or about the absence of such notification obligations.

[RT I, 29.06.2014, 1 - entry into force 01.07.2014]

(8) An undertaking who is not required to submit the confirmations specified in subsections (6) and (7) of this section together with the annual report or income tax return, submits each year, by 30 June, through the single point of contact, a confirmation that it has performed the notification obligations provided for in subsections (1), (2) and (5) of this section or about the absence of such notification obligations.

[RT I, 29.06.2014, 1 - entry into force 01.07.2014]

§ 31. Obligations of service provider

(1) A service provider may not discriminate a client on the basis of citizenship or place of residence or seat thereof, in particular the conditions of sale of goods or services published by the service provider shall be non-discriminatory, unless the specifications are directly reasoned by objective criteria.

(2) A service provider makes the following information available clearly and unambiguously and in a timely manner before entry into a contract with the client or, where no written contract is entered into, before the service is provided:

- 1) in the case of a sole proprietor the name, personal identification code or registry code, in the absence thereof the date of birth, and business name upon the existence thereof, in the case of an undertaking which is a legal person, the business name and registry code;
- 2) in the case of a service provider of another Contracting State the date of birth, state, address of the seat and postal address if it differs from the address of the seat;
- 3) the contact details (telephone number, e-mail address) of the service provider;
- 4) in the case of an area of activity subject to the authorisation obligation the information concerning the economic administrative authority that has granted the activity licence,
- 5) in the case of a person liable to value added tax the registration number as a taxable person;
- 6) in the case of a regulated profession any professional association or similar institution with which the service provider is registered, the professional title and the member state where such professional title has been granted;
- 7) the price of the service if the price is determined in advance by the service provider;
- 8) the main features of the service;
- 9) in the case of the requirement concerning the existence of liability insurance or another security the amount, currency unit, territory of validity and the dates of commencement and expiry of the term of the liability insurance or another security and the name and contact details of the insurer or provider of security;
- 10) the general conditions and provisions used by the undertaking with regard to an after-sales guarantee not prescribed by law and with regard to the law applicable to the contract and the existence and use of the contractual clauses concerning jurisdiction.

(3) A service provider shall make the information specified in subsection (2) of this section easily accessible at the place of entry into the contract, on any data medium or on the website address provided by the service provider.

(4) A service provider submits at the request of the client:

- 1) the price of the service if the service provider has not determined the price of the type of services in advance or, if an exact price cannot be given, the method for calculating the price so that it can be checked by the client, or a detailed estimate of the price together with the calculation method;
- 2) as regards the regulated professions, a reference to the professional rules applicable in the member state of the place of foundation and how to access them;

- 5) information concerning extra-judicial means of dispute settlement by specifying how to access detailed information on the system of extra-judicial dispute settlement and the conditions for its use.

Division 2

Amendment of Activity Licence

§ 32. Bases for amendment of activity licence

- (1) The amendment of any secondary condition of an activity licence is the amendment of the activity licence.
- (2) An economic administrative authority may amend an activity licence on the following bases:
 - 1) the application of an undertaking;
 - 2) a significant damage or danger caused to public order by the activity permitted by the activity licence, which did not exist or was not known at the time of grant of the activity licence and which overrides the interest of the undertaking in continuing the activity on the current conditions and which can be eliminated by amendment of the activity licence.

§ 33. Procedure for amendment of activity licence

- (1) An application for amendment of the activity licence submitted by an undertaking is adjudicated by an economic administrative authority in the procedure for the grant of activity licences.
- (2) If amendment of an activity licence is initiated by an economic administrative authority, it sends a written notice to the holder of the activity licence concerning the intention to amend the licence, where it reasons the amendment and to which it adds an explanation about the contents of the intended amendment. The undertaking holding the activity licence has the right to submit a position on the intended amendment within 30 days from receiving the notice. The economic administrative authority decides to amend or refuse to amend the activity licence in the procedure provided for the grant of activity licences within 30 days after receipt of the undertaking's position and if the undertaking fails to submit a position, within 30 days after the expiry of the term for submitting a position.
- (3) An economic administrative authority may amend an activity licence without adhering to the time limits specified in subsection (2) of this section by promptly notifying the undertaking thereof if a delay in amendment of the activity licence increases the probability of materialisation of the damage or danger specified in clause 32 (2) 2) of this Act. An activity licence is amended as of communication or delivery of the amendment decision to the undertaking in the procedure provided for in § 60 of this Act or as of a later date set out in the decision.

Chapter 4

Termination and Resumption of Economic Activities

Division 1

Termination of Economic Activities

§ 34. Renouncement of economic activities

- (1) An undertaking notifies the registrar of renouncement of economic activities, setting out in the notice the time of renouncement of economic activities (hereinafter notice on renouncement of economic activities).
- (2) Renouncement of economic activities means voluntary termination of pursuit of economic activities by an undertaking in one or more areas of activity subject to the authorisation or notification obligation. If economic activities are renounced for a certain term, the undertaking may give notice of the dates of renouncement and re-commencement of economic activities (hereinafter notice on temporary renouncement of economic activities).
- (3) An undertaking which has failed to comply with the obligation to submit an annual report provided by law within six months after the expiry of the term for compliance with this obligation is also deemed to have fully renounced economic activities.
- (4) A sole proprietor which has failed to comply with the obligation to submit an income tax return provided by law within six months after the expiry of the term for compliance with this obligation is also deemed to have fully renounced economic activities.

(5) The right to renounce economic activities does not preclude the obligation of an undertaking under law, administrative act or contract to continue to pursue economic activities; and if such obligation to continue to pursue economic activities exists, the undertaking is deemed not to have renounced economic activities.

(6) An undertaking which has failed to comply with the obligation provided for in subsection 30 (8) of this Act is also deemed to have fully renounced economic activities if six months have passed from the due date for compliance with the obligation.

§ 35. Ensuring of continuity of provision of services of general interest

(1) A provider of services of general interest that wishes to renounce the provision of services of general interest at least partially or temporarily, including to renounce the provision of services of general interest due to the circumstances which prevent it, notifies an economic administrative authority thereof at least three months in advance (hereinafter notice on renouncement of provision of services of general interest).

(2) Upon renouncement of provision of services of general interest an economic administrative authority ensures the continuity of the services to the clients of the provider of the services of general interest. If it is impossible or unreasonably expensive to obtain a service from elsewhere for the time of renouncement by the provider of services of general interest, the economic administrative authority may issue a precept to the provider of services of general interest to continue to provide the services of general interest (hereinafter continuation precept).

(3) A provider of services of general interest may be required by the continuation precept to continue to provide the services of general interest after the intended term for renouncement on the hitherto existing conditions or if possible on the conditions set out in the precept which are less burdening on the undertaking than before. The term for the continuation obligation imposed by a precept may be up to nine months from notification of renouncement of provision of services of general interest by the undertaking or from the time the economic administrative authority learns about such intention in any other manner.

(4) Immovable property used for provision of services of general interest may be acquired in public interest, including expropriated, if this is necessary to ensure continuity of provision of services of general interest. Acquisition in public interest shall be conducted pursuant to the Acquisition of Immovables in Public Interest Act. Upon conducting the proceedings, the time limits provided by the specified Act need not be observed and no additional compensations shall be paid to the provider of services of general interest in addition to the consideration. During the proceedings of acquisition of an immovable the economic administrative authority may issue a precept for continuation of the proceedings to the provider of services of general interest until the end of the proceedings.

(5) A provider of services of general interest is entitled to claim compensation for the damage caused by compliance with the precept issued in conformity with this section unless renouncement of provision of the services of general interest thereby was in conflict with the obligations thereof arising from law, administrative act or contract. An undertaking that has violated an obligation arising from law, administrative act or contract by renouncing to provide the services of general interest is required to compensate for the damage caused by such violation.

(6) For the purposes of this section, the appropriate economic administrative authority concerning an area of activity subject to the authorisation obligation is the economic administrative authority which is competent to grant an activity licence, and concerning other areas of activity, the economic administrative authority which is competent to determine the licensed territory of the undertaking or terminate a contract entered into with the undertaking for the provision of the services of general interest.

(1) An economic administrative authority may prohibit an undertaking or a person related to the undertaking to pursue economic activities due to material violation of economic activity requirements (hereinafter prohibition on economic activities).

(2) In the case of a prohibition on economic activities a person is deprived of the right to engage in the area of activity specified in the prohibition decision and to be a member of a managing body, liquidator or procurator of a legal person engaged in such area of activity or to participate in the management of such legal person in any other manner.

(3) In an area of activity subject to the authorisation obligation only the violation of economic activity requirements which are not in the subject of review of the activity licence or of obligations which do not arise from the secondary conditions of the activity licence may serve as a basis for the prohibition.

(4) Economic activities may be prohibited only in an area of activity in which the violation occurred and in the event of justified need also in an area of activity related thereto or in an area of activity of close nature. The extent of the prohibition is set out in the prohibition decision.

(5) Economic activities may be prohibited by an economic administrative authority which task is to exercise supervision over compliance with the economic activity requirements which violation serves as a basis for the prohibition. If both the state economic administrative authority and the local government economic administrative authority have such competence, the prohibition is decided by the state economic administrative authority. If several state economic administrative authorities have such competence, each of them has the right to prohibit and the economic administrative authority that has initiated the prohibition process involves another competent authority to provide an opinion.

(6) The prohibition on economic activities is valid for one year from entry into force of the prohibition decision. During the validity of the prohibition the person whose economic activities are prohibited may apply for revocation of the prohibition at any time. An application for revocation of the prohibition on economic activities is submitted to the economic administrative authority that has imposed the prohibition together with the plan for compliance with the undertaking's diligence obligation, which contains information on how the undertaking intends to ensure compliance with such economic activity requirements in the future which violation served as a basis for imposing the prohibition. An economic administrative authority adjudicates the application within 30 days after receipt thereof and revokes the prohibition if it finds that the submitted plan for compliance with the diligence obligation is sufficient to ensure compliance with the economic activity requirements in the future.

(7) If a prohibition on economic activities is imposed in an area of activity in which the undertaking has been granted an activity licence to pursue economic activities, the activity licence is suspended to the extent of the prohibition until the expiry or revocation of the prohibition. The term of an activity licence issued for a specified term is not extended by the time during which the activity licence was suspended pursuant to this subsection.

§ 37. Revocation of activity licence

(1) An economic administrative authority revokes an activity licence on the following bases:

- 1) intentional submission of incorrect information by an undertaking upon application for an activity licence, which affected the grant of a licence, provided that if such information had not been submitted, the grant of an activity licence would have been denied;
- 2) renouncement of economic activities by an undertaking;
- 3) validity of a relevant prohibition on economic activities imposed by a court judgment or arising from law in a relevant area of activity in respect of an undertaking, except for validity of a prohibition on economic activities imposed pursuant to this Act.

(2) An economic administrative authority may revoke an activity licence on the following bases:

- 1) failure to commence economic activities within two years after issue of the activity licence or failure to pursue economic activities within two years, and in the case of provision of services of general interest, failure to commence economic activities within 12 months after issue of the activity licence or failure to pursue economic activities within 12 months or failure to commence economic activities within the term prescribed by a secondary condition of the activity licence;
- 2) material violation of an economic activity requirement in the subject of review of the activity licence or a secondary condition of the activity licence;
- 3) a significant damage or danger caused to public order by the activity permitted by the activity licence, which did not exist or was not known at the time of grant of the activity licence and which overrides the interest of the undertaking in continuing the activity and which cannot be eliminated by amendment of the activity licence;
- 4) the arising of a resolute condition which has been imposed as a secondary condition of the activity licence and which serves as a prerequisite for the validity of the activity licence in the relevant area of activity;
- 5) the notice on renouncement of provision of services of general interest.

(3) An activity licence is revoked as of communication or delivery of the revocation decision to the undertaking in the procedure provided for in § 60 of this Act or as of a later date set out in the decision. In the event provided for in clause (1) 1) of this section an activity licence is revoked retroactively from the grant thereof.

(4) An activity licence is revoked on the basis of clause (1) 2) of this section only in the area of activity in which the undertaking has renounced economic activities, and on the basis provided for in subsection (2) 5) of this section, only in the area of activity, in which the undertaking submitted a notice on renouncement of provision of services of general interest. An activity licence may be revoked on the basis provided for in clause (2) 2) only in an area of activity in which the violation occurred and in the event of justified need also in an area of activity related thereto or in an area of activity of close nature. Amendment of basic regulation of an activity licence is also regarded as revocation of an activity licence.

(5) An undertaking whose activity licence has been revoked may apply for a new activity licence for the same activity at any time. If the activity licence of an undertaking has been revoked in the previous year due to violation by the undertaking of the economic activity requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence or the secondary conditions of the activity licence, it has to add to the new application for an activity licence submitted for the same activity a plan for compliance with the undertaking's diligence obligation containing information concerning how it intends to ensure in the future the compliance with the economic activity requirements in the subject of review of the activity licence or the secondary conditions of the activity licence which violation served as a basis for revocation of the previous activity licence.

(6) If an undertaking subject to a prohibition on economic activities holds an activity licence and it continues to pursue economic activities regardless of the prohibition or to violate the economic activity requirements which have served as a basis for imposing the prohibition, an economic administrative authority may revoke the activity licence to the extent to which the prohibition on economic activity imposed on the basis of this Act applies.

§ 38. Violation of economic activity requirement or secondary condition of activity licence which serves as basis for prohibition of economic activities and revocation of activity licence

(1) An activity licence may be revoked or the economic activity of an undertaking or a person related thereto may be prohibited due to violation of an economic activity requirement or a secondary condition of the activity licence only if the violation is material within the meaning of subsection (2) of this section.

(2) The violation of an economic activity requirement or a secondary condition of the activity licence is material if it can be assumed on the basis of the nature of the violation that the undertaking or a person related thereto would also be unable to ensure compliance with such requirement or condition in the future and it is necessary to prevent the danger or damage that has been caused or that may be caused by the violation to the employees or clients of the undertaking, the interests of third persons or the public interest. Such violations are primarily continuous violation of an economic activity requirement or a secondary condition of the activity licence, repeated similar violations or a violation that has caused serious or material danger to public order.

(3) If continued violation of an economic activity requirement or a secondary condition of the activity licence is caused by an unforeseeable event, the continued violation is not deemed to be material within 30 days from commencement of the violation and no precepts are issued to eliminate the violation if the undertaking has complied with the notification obligations provided for in § 30 of this Act and if continuation of the economic activity is necessary in order to prevent the danger or damage that may arise to public order or to the undertaking from discontinuation which overrides the danger or damage that may arise to public order or to the undertaking from continuation.

(1) Violation of an undertaking's diligence obligation is presumed in the event of material violation of an economic activity requirement or a secondary condition of the activity licence.

(2) An undertaking, in respect whereof a prohibition of economic activities or revocation of an activity licence is being decided, is provided by an economic administrative authority, prior to the making of the decision, with an opportunity to submit a written explanation to refute the presumption specified in subsection (1) of this section at least concerning how it has complied with the undertaking's diligence obligation. Economic activities of the undertaking shall not be prohibited and the activity licence granted thereto shall not be revoked if the undertaking proves that the reason for the material violation of the economic activity requirement or the secondary condition of the activity licence was not a violation of its diligence obligation.

(3) A person related to an undertaking, in respect whereof prohibition of economic activities is being decided, is provided by an economic administrative authority, prior to the making of the decision, with an opportunity to submit a written explanation to refute the presumption specified in subsection (1) of this section at least concerning how the undertaking has complied with the diligence obligation and how the person related to the undertaking has contributed to compliance with the undertaking's diligence obligation. Economic activities of the person related to the undertaking may be prohibited if the administrative authority ascertains that the person related to the undertaking has caused the violation of the undertaking's diligence obligation. Economic activities of the person related to the undertaking shall not be prohibited if the person related to the undertaking proves that the reason for violation of the economic activity requirement or the secondary condition of the activity licence was not a violation of the undertaking's diligence obligation.

(4) An undertaking's diligence obligation is not complied with if the undertaking fails to eliminate a continuous violation of an economic activity requirement or a secondary condition of the activity licence within a reasonable term granted for this purpose by a precept.

§ 40. Expiry of activity licence

An activity licence expires in the following cases:

- 1) upon expiry of a term of the activity licence if the activity licence was granted for a specified term;
- 2) upon death of a sole proprietor and liquidation, merger, division and transformation of a legal person unless the activity licence is transferred pursuant to § 46 of this Act.

§ 41. Parallel procedures

(1) If violations of the same economic activity requirement or a secondary condition of the activity licence may cause prohibition of the economic activities or revocation of the activity licences of both the undertaking and a person related to the undertaking, both matters are decided in a single procedure.

(2) If a person that has violated an economic activity requirement or a secondary condition of the activity licence renounces the economic activity or applies for revocation of the activity licence, it does not affect the prohibition of economic activities thereof or the revocation of the activity licence due to the violation of the economic activity requirement or the secondary condition of the activity licence.

(3) During bankruptcy proceedings, the violation of such economic activity requirement or such secondary condition of the activity licence which primary objective is to protect the interest of creditors of the undertaking cannot serve as a basis for revocation of an activity licence of the undertaking or prohibition of economic activities thereof, unless revocation of the activity licence or prohibition of economic activities is necessary in order to prevent danger or damage that may be caused by continuation to public order which overrides the danger or damage that may be caused by continuation to the interests of creditors. Bankruptcy proceedings do not otherwise affect the procedure for prohibition of economic activities or revocation of the activity licence.

§ 42. Precept to terminate violation of economic activity requirement or secondary condition of activity licence

Upon violation of an economic activity requirement or a secondary condition of the activity licence an economic administrative authority issues, prior to prohibition of economic activities or revocation of an activity licence, a precept specified in § 68 of this Act to the undertaking to bring the activity into conformity with economic activity requirements or secondary conditions of the activity licence. No precept is issued if it is obvious on the basis of the circumstances that the undertaking would fail to comply with it.

§ 43. Suspension of economic activity or activity licence

(1) An economic administrative authority may partially or fully suspend an economic activity or the activity licence of an undertaking:

- 1) upon serious danger or material danger involved in the material violation of an economic activity requirement or a secondary condition of the activity licence until elimination of the violation or deciding on the prohibition of economic activities or revocation of the activity licence;
- 2) upon obstructing the exercise of state supervision until allowing to exercise state supervision if the undertaking has failed to comply with a precept to terminate the obstruction issued thereto pursuant to § 68 of this Act, in which it has been warned of such suspension.

(2) The term of an activity licence issued for a specified term is not extended by the time during which the activity licence was suspended pursuant to subsection (1) of this section.

(3) The extent of suspension of an economic activity or activity licence is indicated in the decision on suspension.

(2) If requested by the Contracting State of foundation of a service provider, an economic administrative authority exercises state supervision, within the limits of competence granted thereto for state supervision, over the service provider providing services in Estonia based on a reasoned request of the Contracting State of the place of foundation of the service provider to verify compliance with the requirements of the Contracting State of its place of foundation (hereinafter request for supervision) and notifies such Contracting State of the results of the supervision and of the measures taken. The economic administrative authority decides which supervisory measures that can be applied in the respective area of activity are most appropriate in each individual case to comply with the conditions of the Contracting State of the place of foundation.

(3) If an economic administrative authority which receives a request for supervision from a Contracting State is not competent to exercise supervision in the relevant area of activity, it forwards the request to the competent economic administrative authority as soon as possible.

(1) An economic administrative authority forwards to a competent authority of a Contracting State at the request thereof information concerning administrative measures applied to and punishments imposed on a service provider and decisions made on insolvency or bankruptcy involving fraud which are directly relevant to the service provider's competence or reliability, in particular on whether there is a valid prohibition on economic activities imposed on the service provider in the relevant area of activity by a court judgment which has entered into force in a criminal matter or pursuant to law.

(2) Information concerning the administrative measures or punishments referred to in subsection (1) of this section is provided if the decision is final. With regard to other decisions referred to in subsection (1) the economic administrative authority provides information on whether the decision is final or an appeal has been lodged, and in the latter case an indication of the date when the final decision is expected.

(3) The economic administrative authority providing information on the basis of subsection (1) of this section refers to the legal provisions on the basis of which a judgment of conviction was made in respect of or punishment was imposed on the service provider.

(2) After receiving a notice from a Contracting State of the place of foundation about the measures applied or envisaged or the reasons why it has not applied any measures, the economic administrative authority notifies the European Commission and the Contracting State of the place of foundation of its intention to apply measures, setting out the reasons why it believes that:

- 1) the measures applied or envisaged by the Contracting State of the place of foundation are inadequate;
- 2) the measures envisaged by it are in conformity with the conditions provided for in Article 18 of the Services Directive.

(3) The measures may not be applied before 15 working days have passed from the date of receipt of the notice provided for in subsection (2) of this section.

(4) In urgent cases an economic administrative authority which intends to apply a measure may derogate from the requirements provided for in subsections (1)–(3) of this section. In such case the European Commission and the Contracting State of the place of foundation are promptly notified of the applied measures, stating the reasons for urgent action in the given situation.

(5) Where an economic administrative authority receives a request specified in subsection (1) of this section from a Contracting State to apply measures with regard to a service provider founded in Estonia, the economic administrative authority checks promptly whether the service provider violates economic activity requirements and ascertains the circumstances underlying the request of the Contracting State. The economic administrative authority notifies the requesting Contracting State promptly of the measures applied or envisaged or, if necessary, of the reasons why it has not applied any measures.
